

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fielding glove has an outer shell having at least one finger portion, a thumb portion, and a web joining the thumb portion and the nearest finger portion; at least one interior finger compartment designed to accommodate at least one finger positioned within the outer shell; and an interior thumb compartment designed to accommodate a thumb positioned within the outer shell; where the angle between the interior thumb compartment and the nearest interior finger compartment is approximately 90 degrees. The interior finger compartment may be designed to accommodate all four fingers and the outer shell has two finger portions. There is also wrist protection provided.